Library's Embracing Sustainability with Balloon Mission's Collection Program

Balloon Mission's library collection program is a beacon of hope and sustainability, with 19 participating libraries across Nassau and Suffolk Counties stepping up to make positive impact. These libraries, the heart and soul of our communities, are now hubs for positive change, offering sustainable solutions that allow people to enjoy balloons responsibly while ensuring they never become a hazard to animals, people, or our environment. Balloon bins placed at the entrance or by the circulation desk encourage collections and foster community involvement.

Balloon Mission aims to transform the culture surrounding balloon releases for memorials and celebrations, promoting eco-friendly alternatives like blowing bubbles instead of letting them go. In Suffolk County and many municipalities in Nassau it is against the law to intentionally release balloons. There are also federal warning labels: weight balloons, never release, can spark fires and power outages, choking hazard for children under 8 years old. Together, our libraries are paving the way for a greener and cleaner future, ensuring that our celebrations bring joy without compromising the health of our planet.

"Our community loves the fact that we have this bin available, and word has been spreading!"

-Jonathan Pryor, Department Head -
Community Outreach- Sayville Library

Special thanks to our valued volunteers at ACDS and Maryhven Center of Hope who collect, sort, and count balloons! Visit www.BalloonMission.org to find a balloon bin, start a collection, join the movement, or donate!
